audience reviews

None of the Above, Another Square Production

Review: This is a really good script for young actors to work on and these two young actors sure have put in the work on this show. You won't be disappointed, it's a fun show and a good way to spend an evening. The set is pretty cool also!

Review: Disappointing show. I've seen Carissa in other productions and she shines. In this show, it seemed like she was holding back. There was no energy. Set was blah. Overall, not a great experience.

Review: This show is quite funny and just what I needed after a long week. It is funny to think about test scores when one is as old as me but there are several points to this play about how we are fooled by these kinds of tests. Brandon played the perfect nerd tutor while Carissa played the "bad girl" with ferocity. There are surprises unforeseen in the story - I held on to every word so I wouldn't miss a beat. Great sub-plot but I won't get into that as not to spoil it for you. I highly recommend this play, especially if you need a laugh or your spirits lifted!
- advid Theatre goer!

Review: This is a very funny show! It intertwines a lot of themes and ideas elegantly and creatively. The actors had so much energy and excitement (such a fast paced show that, at times, literally had them bouncing off the walls). Go see it! It's fun and you'll probably learn a WHOLE lot of big words. I know I did!

Review: I liked the play a lot, it was funny and entertaining! Very charming!

Review: The show was fun and bursting with energy! Carissa delivered a solid performance with some sassy dance moves at the top of the play. Brandon showed versatility and depth proving that nerds have more gusto than we give them credit for. Loved the show. If you've ever taken the SAT, played poker, fallen in love with nerds or marijuana dealing young ladies, this is the show for you!

Review: Someone dragged me to this play because they went to high school with the actors. I expected to have to politely suffer through it as I had never heard of this play before. Well from the loud music and dancing around by the rich teen in the first few minutes to her compassionate turn around I was entranced. I also enjoyed the snooty SAT instructor becoming more human (and humane) by the end of the play. This was great fun and a wonderful play. So BRAVO! Let yourself be dragged out to see it. You won't regret it.

Review: I was pleasantly surprised that there were so many twists and turns in this play. the premise sounded fairly simple - the conflict between a nerdy SAT tutor and a bratty teenager. However, there were plots and subplots that kept the audience very interested to see what would happen. Also the young actors in the play were wonderful and fun. From beginning to end the play holds your attention. It was very good and I would recommend this play to anyone who wants to spend an enjoyable evening watching a local live performance by two very talented young actors.

Review: This is a not a very complex, somewhat predictable two person show, but it is well written, with a couple plot twists that maintain interest through the multiple scenes. The actors both do good work. Carrisa Maegher is sparkling as the girl. This is her best performance in the past 5 years. This is the first time I've seen Brandon and he did well with not a lot of material in the part. His part is the foil for the girl, who has most of the good lines. This is a fun play to see but you won't walk out a changed person or intellectually challenged, but you will be smiling. Take a date and have fun.
