audience reviews

Disney's The Jungle Book, Davis Musical Theatre Company

Review: This show was not only a spectacular children's production but also heartwarming. One quarter of the cast members are autistic. They are fully incorporated into the frolics of the Jungle Book characters. The children work together to put on a very entertaining and professional show. Go see it, you'll walk out with a smile on your face!

Review: What an entertaining, colorful and very fun production! The performers were fresh, lively and clearly very talented. The inclusion of Sense theater (a troupe of actors with autism) made the production even more touching. I especially liked the Monkeys, Elephants and Vultures. Watching the wolf look after her little wolf was very touching. The pairing of Autistic children with the actors was occasionally evident and always added to the production. A wonderful experience!

Review: This show is amazing! What a wonderful expression of love between experienced actors and children with autism. This has changed so many lives in so many ways. You will not regret seeing it. It's been a sell out.
