audience reviews

A Few Good Men, Sacramento City College (City Theatre)

Review: It was so good i loved it I going back to see it again.

Review: I saw this show on Friday performing before a sold out house. Aside from a few opening night stumbles, the show was pitch perfect. Even though I have seen the movie, I was still captivated by the play. I was impressed by the young cast and even more so by the experienced community actors, who must think very highly of City Theatre to continue performing there long after they have been students. I highly recommend others to see this show. It is funny, thought provoking, and it keeps you on the edge of your seat.

Review: Well done! The best I've seen at City Theatre in the last few years! Well worth watching. I was pleasantly surprised considering the difficult task of undertaking a military play (not to mention one that has already been made into a well known film). The huge amount of work put into this production was apparent. Highly recommended!

Review: This play was fabulous!!! The acting was superb and the set was beautiful!! Everybody please go see it!
- Jennifer Schwartz

Review: An excellent effort, all the way from the set design with its oversized and stylized flag backdrop and dramatic watch tower to the in-character announcement of emergency exits to the intimate tears shed by actors in the final scene. One of the best I have seen at City Theatre. This played to a near-full house opening weekend, so come early!

Review: My husband and I went to see, A Few Good Men, last evening at the Sacramento City College City Theatre, and want to say that it was one of the best performances we have seen. It was so well done that we were surprised that it wasn't totally sold out. The acting was superb and we loved the way the scenes were changed with a military fashion. The whole play was definitely a 4star production. I work at the college and will certainly let others know.

Review: Excellent! A group of us went mainly to see our kids' former high school classmate, and although he had only a very small part, we all thoroughly enjoyed the play. Very thought-provoking, and I actually had to wipe a few tears from my eyes at the very end. I found myself reliving several scenes the following day, and may actually go back to see it again. I had to pay very close attention to the dialog in a few of the earlier scenes, because it sometimes moved so quickly, but before I knew it, I was completely absorbed into the play. For reasons you'll just have to attend yourself to find out, whenever I go to a movie or play from now on, I'm sure the first thing I'll think to do is turn off or silence my cell phone! :)

Review: This is a show worth seeing. I've seen it twice now, and it just gets better. This whole production is "spit and polish." The staging, lighting, sets, set changes, everything enhances the excellent quality of this show. The cast look good, look sharp. They move with the precision of a drilled company of Marines. The performances are excellent. Despite a few line bobbles here and there (It's Aaron Sorkin, so dialogue is king), this show comes together and creates a spirit greater than any individual element that goes into it. Go see this show. That is all.
