Snow White, Sacramento City College (City Theatre)

Review: This production of Snow White is tremendously entertaining. I can't remember the last time I laughed so hard. It is surprising and creative and funny. I thoroughly enjoyed the "interactive" nature of the production -- it felt like I was part of the cast. And the performers seemed to be having a lot of fun. This play is not only worth seeing, its worth seeing more than once. Among the best elements -- local references, contemporary cultural references, and the music! The entire cast was wonderful. It's difficult to single anyone out because they were all so good, but the Magic Mirror was particularly expressive and has a strong singing voice.

Review: This is the second play that I have been to ever and honestly, Snow White was off the hook. Like no other play that I think would be able to match up to this particular one. The fascinating part was that they had musical involved in it. In addition they did a splendid job involving the audience into the play. They also passed out goodies in the middle of the play. The show was spectacular. I am even planning on dragging my friends to go with me especially to watch this production again. The entire cast of the play did a marvelous job along with the production and other crew members did a splendid job. The play demonstrated components of humor, thriller, romance, and the best of them all- music. There is nothing in the play that I would tell the director to change. The play did indeed make me feel like being at home and watching a movie expect for the fact that the play was thousand times much better and worth than watching a movie. The play ended with a wonderful musical and while walking to my car, I could hear everyone singing/humming that musical on their way out. I am so glad that I watched this play.

Review: This is a lively, entertaining, and enjoyable production. The youthful players seem to be enjoying themselves with dance, song, and corny jokes. The costumes are colorful and humorous. The golden monkeys assist the wicked queen be diabolically funny. The Huntsman puts on a fine performance as does the host "Dame" (man in dress). Not really for children, it does have something for every age group. I have not enjoyed myself that much at the theater in a long time. This was a creative venture with lots of color and stage magic as the three dimetional scenes unfold from huge books that roll out of a shelf. Two pianos, one expertly played by a 16 year old, helped the drummer set the musical score and enhances the knee slapping fun. The princes vying for Snow White's hand were masterfully performed and Prince Charming (a young woman) has a steals the show with a wonderful voice.

Review: I love Panto, so imagine my glee to find some locally. The City Theater production of Snow White was full of the requisite bad puns, pop culture references, a Dame, candy, audience participation, and (of course) a pantomime horse. I would like to make particular mention of the pair of dancing Golden Monkeys, and the wonderfully over the top acting of The Dame, The Queen, and Rosemary Thyme a.k.a. Muggly. As you may imagine, I had a great time.

Review: We enjoyed the production. It was exactly what we wanted to experience on Saturday night. Lots of Fun and Entertainment! In fact, we are bringing more of our family back to see it in December. Bravo!

Review: I loved it. It was hilarious. The use of large books representing the story book chapters for senery was fantastic. The costumes were perfectly matched to the characters personalities. The use of music, present day and local references and sarcasim was great. Their twist of the classic fairy tale really made for a enjoyable evening out. The entire cast did an outstanding job. The narrators the Dame and Muggly really connected with the audience. The singing voices of the Snow white, Prince charming and the Mirror made me want to hear more. I strong recommend seeing this play. I will at least one more time before the end of its run. Bravo to the Director and Cast.

Review: Wow, where can I start? That was the best play I've ever seen! It's full of laughter and comedy. Also full of great actors! I KNOW that was a good play because none of the actors stopped what they were saying, and forgot their line. There was a part in the play where we got to throw balls at the Queen, and mine knocked her upside the head!

What was also awesome, was that everyone worked together. I could go on and on about how good this play was, but I have to go.

Review: The play Snow White is hilarious. I loved the Dame, the Queen, the prince, the seven Dwarfs, and Snow White. I loved this play and hope to see it again.

Review: HILARIOUS! I was so happy to have the chance to see Snow White. I was not familiar with British panto before this production so this was a great learning experience for me. Doug Lawson was perfect -- down to every look and gesture. It was a joy to see the cast having so much fun on stage. The costumes were bright, the set was clever, the music was fun (as were the musicians), and the audience involvement kept it all flowing. I hope that City Theatre considers a holiday panto offering in years to come.
