audience reviews

Alice in Wonderland, Sutter Street Theatre

Review: We saw Alice in Wonderland over the weekend, and as always Sutter Street Theatre brings a classic tale alive, with all the wonder and joy of the actual story. Lewis Carroll begins the show with Alice, then she is off on her journey, meeting the White Rabbit, Mad Hatter, Cheshire Cat, Caterpillar, and of course the Queen! The whole cast does an excellent job, and you are immersed into this lovely fantasy world. A few audience members even get invited to the mad tea party! It is a definite treat for young and old alike!

Review: Alice in Wonderland at cozy Sutter Street Theatre in historic Folsom is a very entertaining show for both kids and adults alike. There is lots of energy and the actors bring their own personalities to their characters. I especially enjoyed the improved tea party scene with the Mad Hatter and children from the audience. You will not be disappointed if you chose to take this show in on one of our rainy afternoons this winter.

Review: This is the 2nd play that I've seen there. I take my grandchildren when I visit them from TN. We saw Charlotte's Web there, too. Everything about the place and the people are wonderful. So much talent. Great seating. The actors are so warm and friendly. It's fun to take pictures with them after the shows are done. My grandson turned 8 yrs old the day we saw Alice. Connie, the kind and gracious owner, had the audience sing Happy Birthday and then he got to go up on the stage and be the Door Mouse during the Mad Hatter's Tea Party. After we took pictures with the cast, my grandson told me that this was his best birthday ever! And this was one happy Grammy!
