An Evening of Christopher Durang, Big Idea Theatre

Review: I saw the opening night performance on April 4th. Both of the short one act plays were very well done, especially Sister Mary. You will watch both shows with a smile on your face the whole time, when you're not laughing out loud. This is an intimate little theatre so the audience can really connect with the performers. I've never been before and hope it will be around for years to come.

Review: Hilarious! This is definitely the show to see to get your laugh fix.

Review: As a christopher Durang fan I really enjoyed these rendition of these plays. the theatre is quaint and the talent was pretty darn funny. it was hilarious, especially ignatius

Review: A very enjoyable performance! A lot of laughter, but plenty to think about, as well. I was impressed with how the actors were able to have fun with the comedy yet were equally able to convey the edgier moments with depth and sincerity. Extremely well done!

Review: Actor's Nightmare: I laughed till I cried. Accurately captures the feelings of an actor struggling to remember his lines and the resulting frustration of fellow actors. Well done. I laughed harder than I have in a long while.
Sister Mary Ignatius: Starts off funny then evolves into "make you think," then it actually becomes scary. It will push your buttons if you are religious (esp Catholic). Very enjoyable.
