audience reviews

A Midsummer Night's Dream, California Stage

Review: See this show! You will have a smile on your face from beginning to end. Most of the cast of 20 are young -- from around children through college, with a few adults thrown in. This musical version of Shakespeare's classic is as cute as the cast is talented. The songs are clever and catchy, and the choreography is just plain fun. This is a lot of entertainment for very little money. The large audience on opening night was very enthusiastic in their applause throughout the show. It ends on August 1, so don't wait. It's a kid-friendly show, but adults will be charmed as well.

Review: This is a fun show. Well worth seeing. And don't stay away because you think California Stage is too hot. It was very comfortable. Puck, Heather McDonald, was very good -- great comedic timing. The songs are delightful. For a fun evening, go see it.
