audience reviews

And Then There Were None, Chautauqua Playhouse

Review: The play was wonderful and all actors aside from Elle McDonald (who was terrible and distracted from the strong points) were good and evocative. Jon Beaver was excellent and should be commended. The sets were good and the lighting was exceptional. Well done, but I would recommend replacing Mrs. McDonald.
- Jason M.

Review: Fun play, great acting & really nice set. My 16 year old, who is a performer, thought the play was very well done. My only complaint - the play didn't follow the book 100%, I'll say no more, as I don't want to be a spoiler. As a school librarian, I was hoping to see the show as Agatha Christie wrote it. Thank you for a fun performance nonetheless.
- Mrs. W

Review: Just as a point of information, Agatha Christie actually wrote the script for the play, and it is a little different than the book.

Review: I completely enjoyed this play & I thought Elle did a fabulous job as the female lead. I had a great time trying to figure out who the killer was & loved the lighting effects at the end of the first act. All the actors did a great job & kept me completely entertained through out the entire show.
- Julie W.

Review: I really enjoyed this play. The set was great, and I liked the ocean right outside the doors. The actors did a good job with their roles, and I didn't know who the killer was until right before the end. We always enjoy Chautauqua plays, but this one was exceptional.

Review: I absolutely loved the performance. All of the Actors played off each other very well. I feel the Director did an excellent job in casting this production. The set was superb, costumes authentic to the period and location, and the mood music created the suspense needed for this production. A definite must see production.
